"We have never met nor have had any contact except through your most amazing book.

My friend had your book out on his desk and the title grabbed my attention straight away so, I picked it up and started reading it.

You captivated me right from the very beginning. It was as if you were talking directly to me about all my very own thoughts and feelings, and that is why I knew I needed a copy of this book for myself.

I know already that it is going to change my life."
